Or Nodding on the thorny bufh,
You droop to hide the rofe's blufh;
The leafy umbrage make of me,
And in this breaft you'll fhelter'd be.
Dans votre lit.

When ev'ry flow'r that paints the ground
Throws fmiles and odours all around,
Sweet flow'r I'll prove thy faithfull bee,
And honey fip from none but thee.
Dans votre lit.

On my Charger prancing,
Rat tat tat his hoofs ſhall beat the ground,
Great Glove and broad Sword glancing,
Salute the Ladies round,
In the grand pas rear up the Pavement tear,
Like a Nóble Col'nel at my Men I ſwear,
Hey they fight to the right keep the Rank guard the flank,
Zounds Ill ſoon be a Brigadeir.

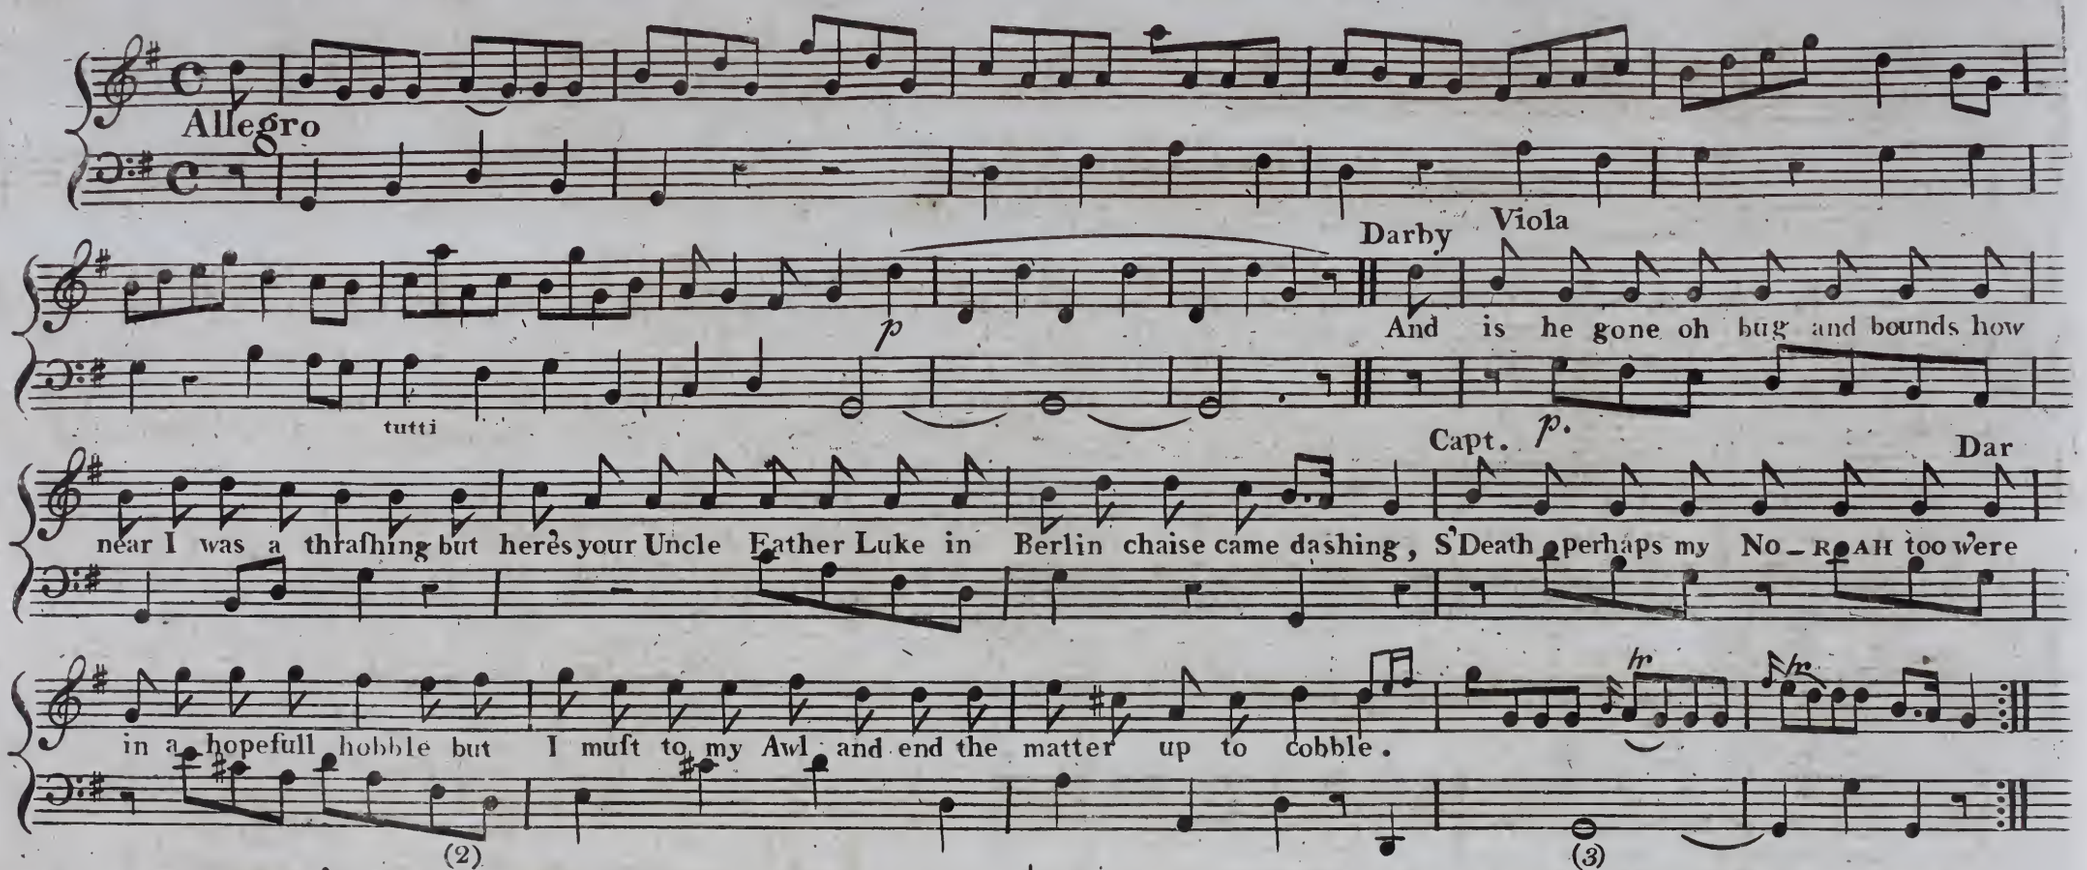
2

The bonds of Hymen o'er my mind,
My conſtant ſoul muſt ever bind
To that dear Woman left behind,
My kind, my tender NORAH,
But, Oh! I fear each mortal part,
Nay e'en this true this faithful heart,
Reſiſtleſs to the urchins dart,
Shot by the eyes of FLORA.

3

Illuſive vapour tranſient blaze;
Oh, vaniſh, while I wand'ring gaze.
But ſhine like Dian's ſilver rays,
My paſsion chaſte for NORAH,
Yet Hymen winks and Venus ſmiles,
And Paſsion ev'ry ſenſe beguiles,
And Cupid with his thouſand wiles,
Aſsiſts my charming FLORA.

Sung by Mr. Johnstone. Mr. Edwin. Mr. Quick. and Mrs. Webb.

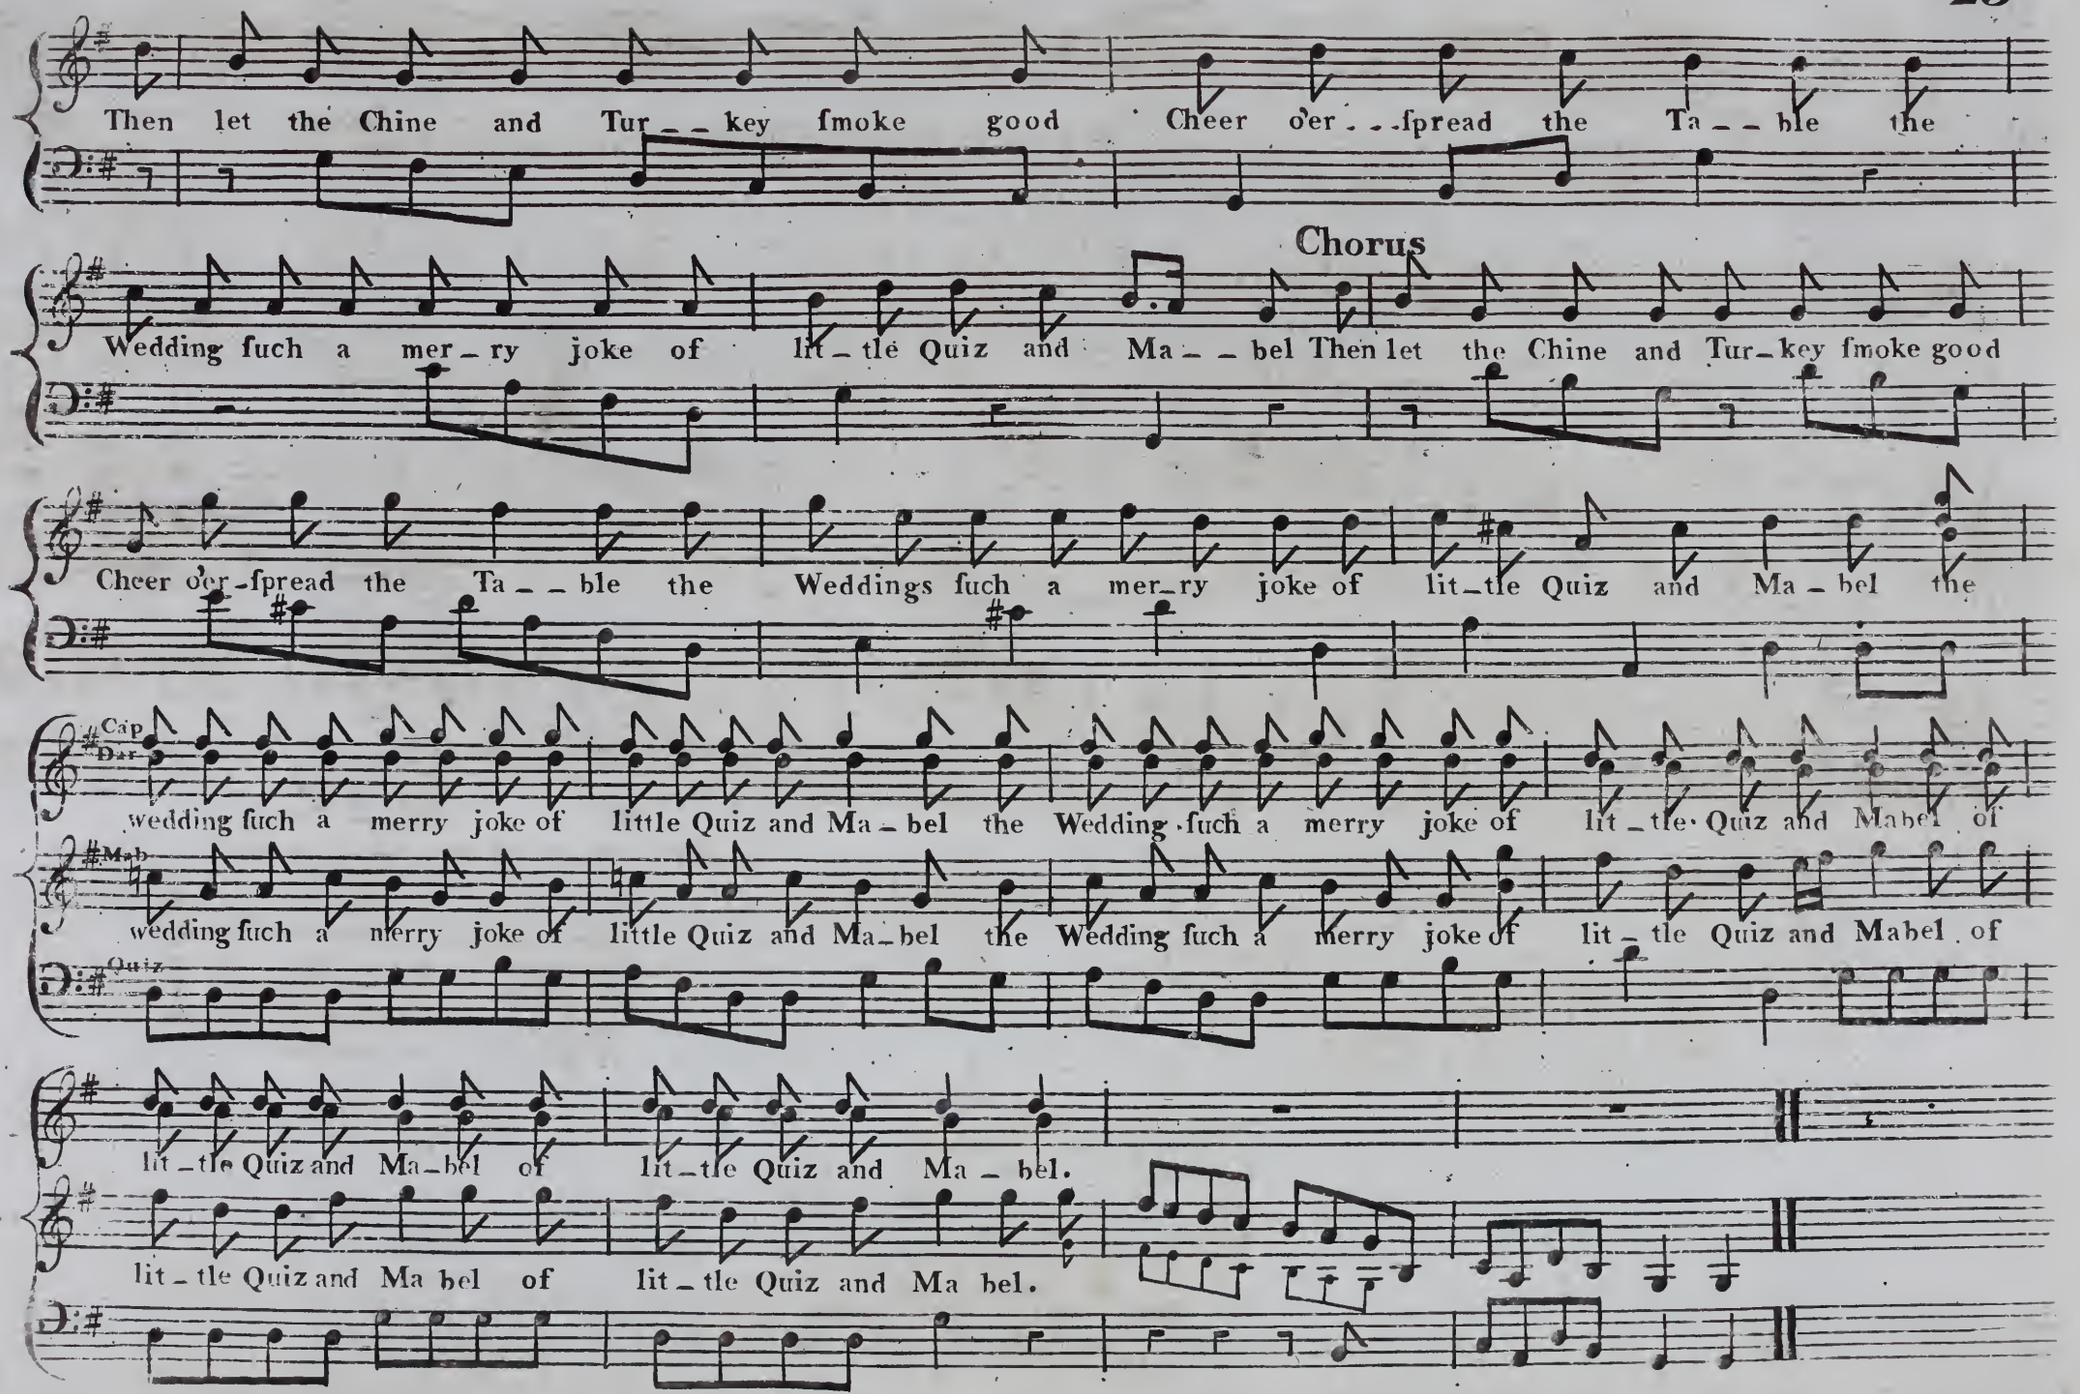


Capt. Diſgraced I cannot face my wife.
Dar. Who bid her now to come, Sir.
Capt. And ſuch a cauſe then Father Luke,
Dar. My hand the prieſt Ill hum, Sir.
Capt. Till I'm reſtor'd amuſe 'em both;
Again my friend, Ill rank ye;
Dar. I wonder how is little Quiz.
I'm pretty well, I thank ye.

Quiz. My Mabel, by the God of War,
Is a celeſtial Houry,
As fine a bride as Man can wiſh
When here you down her dowry.
Mab. Like ſciſsars hung in apron ſtring,
Or dangled here a locket,
But touch my caſh and that and you,
Ill put into my pocket.

(4)

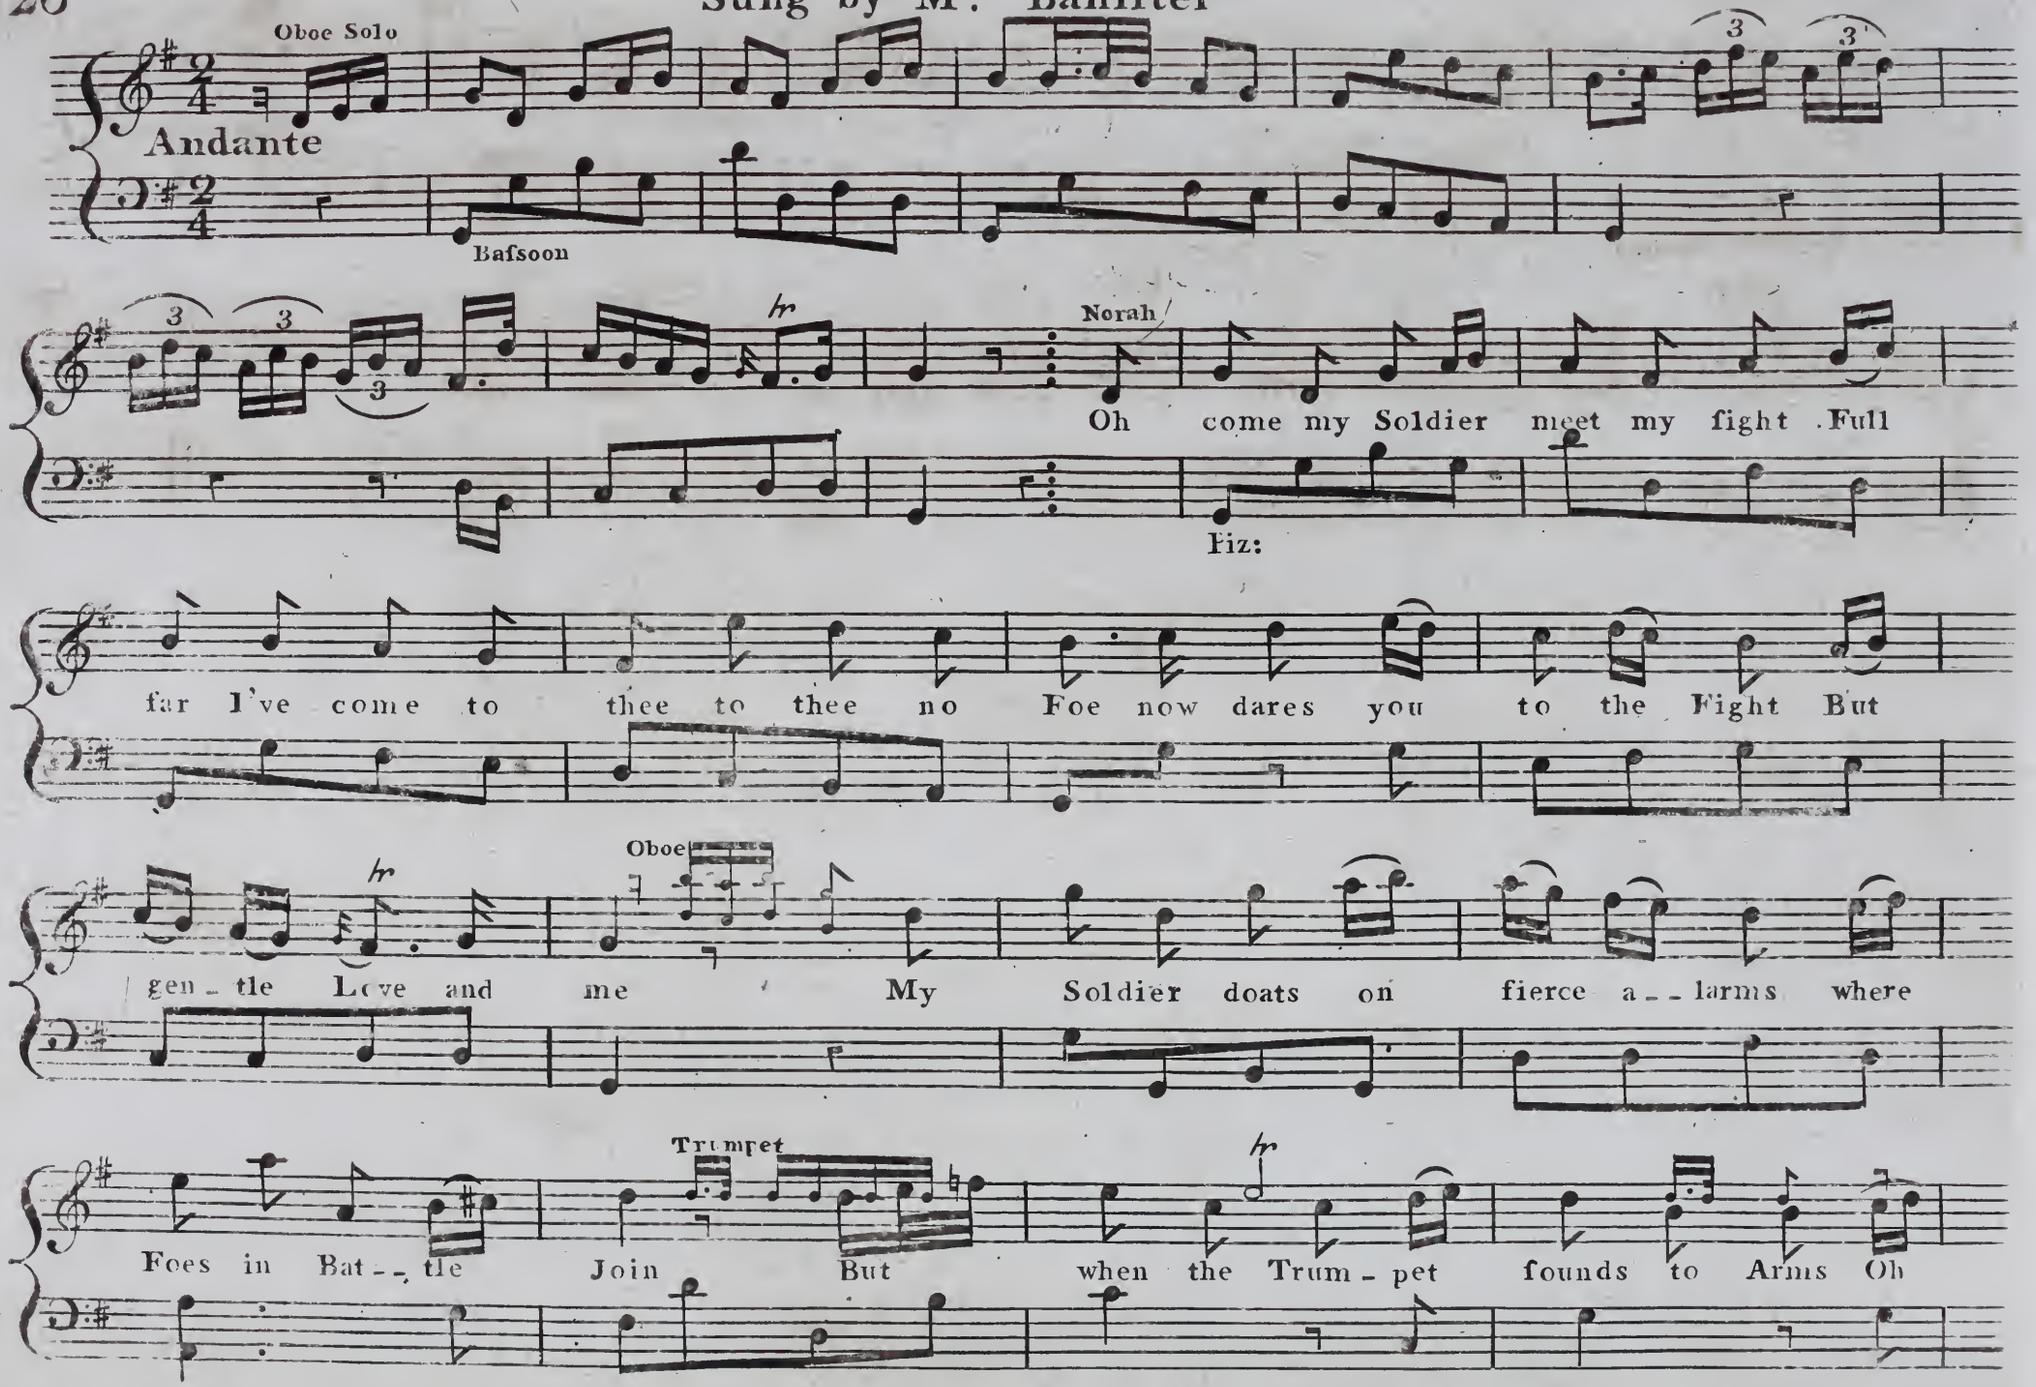
Capt. Come come agree
Dar. Like Man and Wife,
Capt. And very well you'll both do.
Mab. Ay by the God of War we will,
Quiz. Already get my oath too.
Dar. Friend Quiz your hand I give you joy,
Of ſpouſey and her riches,
This comfort ſtill is yours my boy,
She ne'er can wear the breeches.

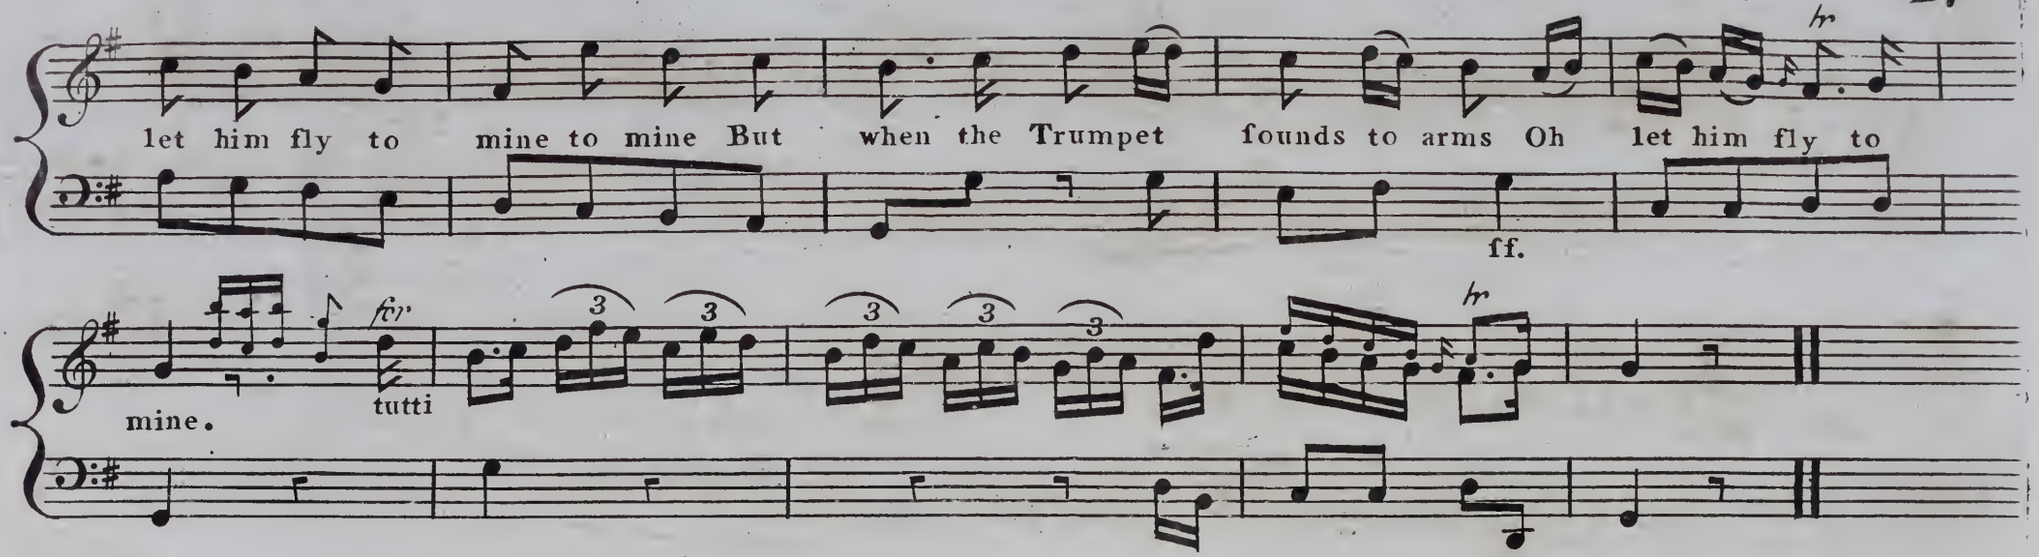


End of the First Act.

Act. 2d

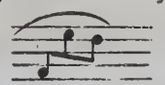
Sung by Mrs Banister





2

In Camps how rough by Mars array'd



There fate attends his will

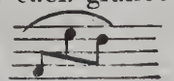
At home you hear each tender Maid

Ah! was he form'd to kill

In charms fecure the fair advance

And ere an arrow flies

He looks around and at each glance



A wounded Maiden dies

He looks around &c.

Like you and I, other dogs may be counted fad dogs;
As we won't drink water, fome might think us mad dogs:
A Courtier is a fpaniel, a citizen's a dull dog,
A Soldier is a maftiff, a Sailor's a bull dog.
Bow, wow, wow,
Fal, lal, la.

3

And old maid comes from church, the poor no lady kinder;
A lufty dog her footman, with praver-book, behind her:
A poor boy afks a farthing, and gets plenty of good kicking,
But Little Shock, her lap-dog, muft have a roafted chicken.

Quiz. As ſure as a gun
We'll ſhew you ſuch fun,
As never was ſeen before;
Like officers ſwear,
And tatter and tear,
And like a cannon we'll roar. Quiz?

Quiz. Darby, did you call?

F. Luke. Ye devils, how loud ye bawl;

Quiz. To houſe, bed, and table, Of Quiz,

Mal. And poor Mabel
You're heartily welcome all.
Oh now let the drum, &c.

3

Flora. Oh, maidens, take care,
By 'xaample beware
If ruin you'd wiſh to ſhun;

Norah. Nor truſt to your charms
When once from your arms
You ſuffer your ſpouſy to run;

Flora. Like birds held in a ſtring;
They'll hop about, then take wing

Norah. From twig to bough flying
You ſobbing your crying
Ne'er back can the wanton bring.
Oh, now let the drum, &c.

4

F. Luke. A ſad wicked place,
A very ſad caſe
Here nothing I'll get to do.
Child, put on your cap, (to Flo.)
And here is a flap;
I'll marry that younker and you; (to Rupert)
If you don't take't amiſs (to Mal.
I'd like to bury poor Quiz
Without any money;
Your hand my dear honey, (to Quiz.
So much I like your phiz.
Oh, now let the drum, &c.

5

Darby. And now, my friends, may
Your Poor Soldier ſay
A word in our Poet's behalf?
Oh, do not then try
To make the boy cry,
Who ſo often has made you laugh:
Succeſs we cannot command,
But let your merciful hand
Now lend us a volley,
And pardon his folly,
For the honor of Old England.
Oh, now let the drum, &c.
